

Table of Contents

Abstract	v
Kurzfassung	vii
List of Tables and Figures	xv
List of Abbreviations	xxi
Chapter 1
Introduction	1
1.1 Idea and Status	2
1.2 Related Scientific Fields	4
1.3 Goals and Limitations of the Study	6
1.4 Structure of the Study	7
Chapter 2
Media Development Cooperation and Journalism Education	11
2.1 Media Development and Digitization	17
2.2 Development Theories: Historical Perspectives and Dimensions	40
2.2.1 Modernization Theory	47
2.2.2 Structuralism and Dependency Theory	52
2.3 Media Development and Democracy	56
2.4 Approaches to Formal and Non-formal Journalism Education	80
2.5 Approaches to Media Development Cooperation	94
2.6 Journalism Education as a Form of Media Development Cooperation	102
2.7 Sustainability and Media Development	112
2.8 The Role of International Media Development Organizations	119
2.8.1 Dimensions and Perspectives	119

2.8.2 Typology of International Media Development Organisations in Myanmar	120
2.8.2.1 IMDOs consulting on structural sustainability including PSB	126
2.8.2.2 IMDOs offering financial support in form of internships, scholarships and fellowships	131
2.8.2.3 IMDOs offering technical supports with teachers and training materials	137
2.8.2.4 IMDOs offering platforms for media safety and security	141
2.8.2.5 IMDOs offering advocacy for the policy making level	144
2.8.2.6 IMDOs with the role of supporting trade unions in media houses	148
 Chapter 3
Overall National and Regional Context	151
3.1 Historical, Geographical, and Political Context	151
3.2 Socio-Economic Development and Human Rights	160
3.3 General Education System	162
3.4 Media System and Journalism Culture	165
 Chapter 4
Journalism Education in Myanmar	171
4.1 Journalism Education in Southeast Asia	171
4.2 Journalism Education Programs and Pathways in Myanmar	188
4.3 Existing Studies	191
 Chapter 5
Study Design and Methodology	207
5.1 Hypothesis and Research Questions	207
5.2 Qualitative Research Approach	212
5.2.1 Sampling and Criteria for Interviewees	216
5.2.2 Semi-Standardized Focus Interviews	218

5.2.3 Category Scheme	221
5.2.4 Qualitative Content Analysis	223
5.3 Quantitative Research Approach	226
5.3.1 Quantitative Survey	226
5.3.2 Selection of Students and Trainees	230
5.3.3 Quantitative Data Analysis	231
 Chapter 6
Empirical Research Results	235
6.1 Typical Journalism Educational Programs and Pathways	235
6.2 Institutional Collaboration	237
6.2.1 Collaboration between Journalism Education Institutions and Journalists Associations	237
6.2.2 Collaboration between Journalism Education Institutes and International Media Development Organizations	239
6.2.3 Collaboration between Journalism Education Institutes and Local Civil Society Organizations and Non- Government Organizations	240
6.2.4 Collaboration between Journalism Education Institutes and Human Rights Organizations	241
6.2.5 Collaboration between Journalism Education Institutes and Media Companies	242
6.2.6 Collaboration between Journalism Education Institutions and Other Institutions	243
6.3 Overall Educational Goals	243
6.3.1 General Educational Goals	243
6.3.2 Role and Relevance of Article 19	244
6.3.3 Additional Important Educational Goals	246
6.4 Intended Learning Outcomes	246
6.4.1 Professional Values	246
6.4.2 Integration of Human Rights Issues and Approaches	247
6.4.3 Human Rights Reporting	249
6.4.4 Media Production Skills	250

6.4.5 Practical Elements	251
6.4.6 Theoretical Knowledge	252
6.4.7 Specialized Knowledge	254
6.4.8 Additional Skills and Knowledge	255
6.4.9 Balance of Theoretical and Practical Knowledge	256
6.4.10 Integration of New Media	257
6.5 Aspects of Teaching	259
6.5.1 Educational and Professional Background of Instructors	259
6.5.2 Lacking in Competencies and Skills	261
6.6 Strength and Weakness of Journalism Education in Myanmar	263
6.7 Future Changes and Challenges	265
6.8 Influence
6.8.1 Influence on Financial Aspects	267
6.8.2 Influence on the Content and Structure of Journalism Education Programs	269
6.8.3 Secondary Forms of Influence	271
6.9 Reflection of the Research Process	272
 Chapter 7
Discussion on the Research Findings	277
 Chapter 8
Conclusion	287
 Bibliography	293
 Appendix 1: List of Interviewees with Dates of Interviews	319
Appendix 2: Qualitative Interview Questionnaires	321
Appendix 3: Quantitative Survey Questionnaire	329
Appendix 4: Category Scheme	331